

Staffing a service under the Education and Care Services Act 2013

The Education and Care Services Act 2013 (ECS Act) commenced on 1 January 2014. The ECS Act replaces the Child Care Act 2002 and applies to a small number of Queensland services licensed under the Child Care Act.

The ECS Act introduced new qualification requirements, different educator-to-child ratios and other staffing requirements, which are outlined in this fact sheet.

The ECS Act applies to:

- services funded by the Queensland Government to provide limited hours care
- occasional care services
- budget-based funded services that do not receive Australian Government Child Care Benefit
- early childhood education and care services that are also disability services under the Disability Services Act 2006.

Qualification and staffing requirements

The ECS Act introduced new qualification requirements and different titles and responsibilities for staff. The position of director has been replaced by the position of supervisor. Group leaders and assistants are referred to as educators and each service must nominate a primary contact person who is referred to as the nominee.

Additional competencies in asthma and anaphylaxis management are required.

What qualifications are recognised under the ECS Act?

The ECS Act recognises qualifications held by staff employed immediately before 1 January 2014.

The Australian Children's Education and Care Quality Authority (ACECQA) is responsible for determining approved qualifications and assess equivalent qualifications.

Visit www.acecqa.gov.au/qualifications for lists of approved qualifications.

Educator-to-child ratios

Educator-to-child ratios in services other than school age services have changed. The mixed age group ratio of 1:13 for 4 to 6 year olds will no longer apply.

There are no new ratio requirements for school age services, however all services must consider the following.

Calculating ratios

All educators must be at least 17 years of age and hold an approved qualification (or be enrolled and working towards that qualification) to be counted in the ratio. Ratios are outlined in the ECS Regulation and summarised in Table 5 and Table 6.

The way in which educator-to-child ratios are applied has changed under the ECS Act.

The number of educators needed is based on the number of children under one Queensland service approval; not the individual rooms.

Ratios are minimum standards and achieving quality education and care is the most important consideration when grouping children.

Mixed age group ratios

Ratio requirements under the ECS Act are based on the age of the youngest child in the care of an educator; specific ratios apply to each age group. See Table 5.

Where an educator has spare capacity within the ratio of children in care, older children (from a different age group ratio) can be added. Older children can only be added up to the limit of the ratio that applies to the youngest child.

Visit www.earlychildhood.qld.gov.au (search for “educator-to-child ratios” for more information.

Ratios for excursions

There is no specific ratio for educators conducting an excursion, however educators need to conduct a risk assessment before each excursion. This will identify any risks that might affect the health, safety and wellbeing of children, including how the risks will be managed. A risk assessment should assess if minimum educator-to-child ratios will be enough to provide adequate supervision.

For a risk assessment template, visit www.earlychildhood.qld.gov.au (search for “excursion risk assessment template”).

*Educator not required to hold a qualification if at least 18 years of age. If an educator is at least 17 years of age, the educator must hold or be actively working towards an approved Certificate III level qualification or higher, in a relevant area of study.

Educator-to-child ratios during children’s rest periods

Table 7 shows the number of children that an educator can care for during a rest period and the number of children each additional educator can care for. See Regulation 46–48 for more information and additional requirements.

Ages of children	Educator-to-child-ratio	Additional educator-to-child ratio
2 years to 3 years	1:12	1:6
2.5 years to 3 years	1:16	1:8
3 years to 12 years	1:24	1:12

Ratios during staff rest pauses

Educator-to-child ratios can be met during staff rest pauses if:

- rest pauses are not longer than 10 minutes
- an educator has not already been absent on two rest pauses on the same day
- the educator does not take a rest pause in a rest period
- another educator is present and able to immediately attend to children, if required (may be the same educator on rest pause)
- only one educator required to meet the educator-to-child ratio for the service is absent on the rest pause.
